Strand board plant to be operational by year-end?

Al Owen hopes to have Drayton Valley's new strand board plant operational by the end of the year.

Owen made the comment last week as stock piling operations got underway in preparation for the opening of the Sturdi Wood plant.

Harold Rehn, who operates a sawmill north of Cynthia had the first load of aspen weighed in last Tuesday. The occasion was recorded with the traditional smashing of a bottle of champagne against the load by woodland supervisor Norm Denney and Sturdi Wood of vice secretary Judy Stewart.

Owen reports they have a good supply of aspen already cut in the bush. However, one of his main concerns is the weather.

The Sturdi Wood boss would like another month of good weather, which would assist in the stock piling operation and several jobs around the plant.

One of the projects at the site, northwest of town along Highway 22, is a $25 million sawmill. Work started on pouring the footings last week.

Average Halloween — RCMP

Last Friday was just another "average Halloween night", according to area RCMP.

Const. Able in Drayton Valley reported, "nothing major has been reported so far. It has been just another normal Halloween, with the usual Halloween tricks."

Evansburg's Const. Stewart agreed.

"There's a lot of junk laying around. They always block main street with benches and garbage. A lot of egg damage to windows and soaping of windows, but nothing major reported yet."

Judy Stewart smashes the bottle of champagne. Norm Denney looks on.

Remembrance Day services set

Weather or not the ceremony will go on.

The annual Remembrance Day services in Drayton Valley is set to go and only the weather can change the plans.

Legion president Betty McGee says there will be no changes in this year's ceremony, which is slated to include a parade.

The parade will form at 10:30 a.m. on November 11 and is scheduled to be back at the Legion by 10:50 a.m. Following the parade a short service with the laying of the wreaths at the cenotaph is planned. If the weather conditions are too cold the service will be moved inside, like last year.

Anyone wishing to buy a wreath or contribute to the poppy fund is urged to call 542-5825.

RCMP, Legionnaires, auxiliary people, Cubs, Scouts, Guides, Brownies and Cadets will be taking part in the parade.

In Evansburg a similar schedule of events is planned. The parade will line up at 10:30 a.m. outside the liquor store and march to the Legion Hall. They will have the laying of the wreaths inside the hall and then two minutes of silence, according to Gene Lashuk, branch manager.

Following the service a hot lunch will be served and the day will conclude with entertainment and refreshments. Cadets, Brownies, Elks, Scouts, RCMP and Legion members are just some of the people marching in the Remembrance Day parade.

At the Wildwood Legion

the Remembrance Day activities will go on no matter what the weather conditions are, according to their president Ada Loughran.

"During the war it didn't matter what the weather was, you were on duty," said Loughran.

Again the parade will form at 10:30 a.m. at the Legion in Wildwood with the march heading to the cenotaph. They will then lay the wreaths and have a two-minute silence before going indoors to the community centre for a short service.

Legion members along with representatives of the Order of the Royal Purple, Pathfinders, Brownies, Guides, Cadets and RCMP will be on hand for the parade.

Following the service a dinner will be served and the afternoon will be spent visiting," Loughran said.

OUR SILENT REMINDER

The following articles were winners in the Royal Canadian Legion's nation-wide essay and poem contest last year.

Remember to Remember

If you think Remembrance Day services are boring, think again. If you think all you do is watch people put down flowers in remembrance of the soldiers, think again. You are remembering. Remembering people who fought and died for you.

When I heard the soldiers telling their war stories, I learned something. Not all of the war was sad. People were happy when they were rescued, when they found protection, and when the war was won.

The soldiers told of sad and happy times in the war. The soldiers who have died were remembered, and I'm glad they were.

These soldiers died for you. For that, you should be grateful.

When I went to the Remembrance Day service, I listened to the stories of the soldiers. I could picture the stories in my mind.

I am proud of the men that I heard had died for us. I knew that these people didn't die for their country. I knew they died for the people in their country.

When I heard how thankful the people were when Canadians came to rescue them, I was proud to be a Canadian, and was able to remember those men who died that day.

You should be too.

JAMIE FLAYN — Wallace, Nova Scotia

Reflections on War

In Flanders' Field our comrades lie.

Seventy years have now gone by. If souls could speak and dead men live, What wisdom would these soldiers give?

They fought for freedom, justice, peace. That with their deaths all wars would cease. Yet if they saw our world again, Would all their efforts seem in vain?

The peaceful lands are now oppressed. As tension mounts we still contest. The fights that started long before Where will it end — another war?

The nuclear bombs and ships in space Will surely kill the human race. The end will be if fight we must! Ashes to ashes, and dust to dust.

SHIRLEY COLLINS — Rosetown, Saskatchewan

Flurries are expected

There's a mixed blend of weather predicted for Drayton Valley and area for the next week.

Today (Tuesday) expect a few clouds with moderate west winds and highs near 11 to 13 °C with lows near freezing. On Wednesday the outlook calls for showers with lows near -2 °C and highs near 10 °C with a 60 per cent chance of precipitation. Flurries are called for Thursday with a 60 per cent chance of precipitation as lows go down to -5 °C and highs around 2 °C. On Friday it's back to the sunny with a 10 per cent chance of precipitation and lows near -11 °C and highs near -2 °C.

Beaver Lumber now here

Beaver has come to town.

Beaver Lumber is the newest addition to the home improvement stores in Drayton Valley.

The nation-wide chain announced last week they had taken over the Crownmart stores in 18 locations in Western Canada, including Drayton Valley.

"It's going to be basically the same," says Karen Klan, assistant manager.

Klan says the staff will remain the same and the only changes at the store will be the colors and the product lines.

"There'll be more variety now; they have a lot more stock because they are a bigger company," she added.

The takeover by Beaver Lumber, founded in 1980, pushes their store total in Canada to 180. Crownmart was founded in 1910 in Manitoba.

Publication delay

Due to the Remembrance Day holiday on Tuesday, Nov. 11, The Western Review will be distributed on Wednesday next week.

All advertising deadlines will be the same as usual Friday noon.

Local RCMP 'operating' on preventing inside thefts

By Lorne Christensen
They're not a cure, but they're good medicine.

Operation Provident and Operation Identification are two programs the local RCMP are pushing to help "deter" thefts.

Operation Provident is "aimed" at companies, according to Cpl. Tom Turner. Turner says the program is already in place at several of the bigger oil companies locally.

Under the program companies are assigned a number by the RCMP and engrave all of their tools and materials with this number.

Turner says the number will help them return the items if they are turned in, or if they are found in someone's possession they can find the original owner. If the original owner is found the RCMP then may be able to press charges of possession of stolen property against the person with the items.

"Thousands and thousands of dollars worth of tools and stuff go missing," Turner says of the problem in the oil patch. He says the program to mark items will help them a lot in catching the thieves.

"If they can't ID the tools we can't do anything about it," he says.

The engraving process itself is made easier by the local RCMP who have engravers available to be signed out.

"It's a long process but it may also help eliminate inside type misappropriations," Turner explained.

Marking valuables is something they are also on encouraging the average homeowner to do. Turner says the Operation Provident program, for the companies, goes hand in hand with the Operation Identification program for homeowners.

Turner says they recommend people mark items with their driver's license number so it takes the RCMP only a "split second" to find the owners.

Turner says marking items won't stop all the thieves but it might turn some away.

In a related matter the RCMP say they are looking into, in cooperation with the town, drafting a bylaw for the new and used and pawn type shops in town.

The bylaw would require these establishments to fill out forms for everything that comes in, Turner says. Then a copy would be forwarded to the RCMP so they can check it against stolen goods reports.

"At least it would close down one avenue they (thieves) have where they can get rid of stolen articles," Turner explained. The idea is already being utilized by the Edmonton and Calgary city police departments.

Bylaw meets mixed reaction

A proposed bylaw to limit the sale of stolen merchandise through pawn shops is being met with mixed reaction.

Danny Thompson, owner of Brendan New and Used, says they are "more than willing to cooperate with the RCMP" on the bylaw as long as it's run effectively.

"We're not here to work as a fence," Thompson said.

The bylaw would require new and used or "pawn type" stores to fill out forms for items coming in to be sold. A similar bylaw is in effect in Edmonton and Calgary to assist police in tracking down stolen property.

Thompson said he deals with some of the owners in Edmonton and is aware of the "police sheets" they fill out on merchandise. "I'll go along with that," he added.

But Thompson was not in favor of any bylaw requiring him to submit forms on everything he buys. He pointed out several hours of extra book work a week would be required to record the merchandise he buys from other stores.

In the two years Thompson has been in business he says they've had only two or three occasions of people trying to sell stolen items. "It's usually something they can carry, like ghetto blasters," he explained.

While the bylaw is still at an early stage a system is already in effect at Brendan New and Used to combat the stolen merchandise problem. Thompson says they have an up-dated list of stolen items from the RCMP and people who call in.

"We keep an eye out for it," he added.

The screening process is something they devised to prevent "being a fence or out the money," Thompson says.

RCMP Cpl. Tim Vatamanuk says they made the recommendation about the bylaw to the town and it's now in their hands.

Brazeau bridge

Alberta Transportation will call for tenders for the construction of a new bridge in the Lodgepole area, Transportation and Utilities Minister Al Adair and Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps announced recently.

The new bridge will be constructed across the Brazeau Canal, approximately 27 kilometres southwest of Lodgepole on the Sunchild Road. It will be part of an overall project to upgrade the Sunchild Road to modern loading and alignment standards.

"It's great to see this project scheduled," said Cripps. "There is considerable heavy, industrial traffic in the area which will benefit from the overall upgrading of the Sunchild Road."

Adair said, "In addition to the industrial traffic in the area, there are plenty of recreational travellers who will appreciate the improvements, as well. As this is a new bridge on a new alignment, existing traffic will not be affected during construction. The bridge is scheduled for completion next fall."

Town's staff attends course

Four members of the town staff attended a communication course in Edmonton last week.

Recreation director Calvin Hennesfield and municipal secretary Robin Wenbourne were part of the group.

Town manager Manny Deol says the four staff members are taking the three month (September to December) course by correspondence. The course, offered by the government, held a special two day session in Edmonton last week.

Nominations needed

For chamber's citizen of the year award

The Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce need your help.

They are looking for people who have made a significant contribution to the quality of life.

In December, at the chamber's general meeting, an announcement will be made as to Drayton Valley's citizen of the year.

It is the chamber's hope, that during the next three weeks groups and organizations will take the time to nominate someone. There shouldn't be any trouble, as we all know someone who has worked behind the scenes in order to make this a better place to live.

Unfortunately, we've all seen these awards come along before, but for some unknown reason, their names were not put forth. Because this is a special award, honoring one of our own citizens, it is hoped concerned groups and organizations will make the effort.

More than 100 letters explaining the guidelines to nominate someone for citizen of the year have been mailed out by the chamber. Additional copies are available at the chamber office or The Western Review.

Wouldn't it be an honor to have someone from your group win the citizen of the year award? To make sure she or he has a chance, get that nomination into the chamber.

Aspen arrives

There was a significant development in Drayton Valley last Thursday.

But you may have missed it, with the low clouds and all.

About 9:30 a.m. the first load of aspen was weighed in at the new Sturdi Wood strandboard plant.

For the record, the first load across the scales belonged to Harold Rehn, who operates a sawmill north of Cynthia.

The occasion was marked with the traditional smashing of a bottle of champagne against the truck by woodland supervisor Norm Denney and secretary Judy Stewart.

Logging trucks will be a familiar sight on our highways as Sturdi Wood begins a stock piling operation in preparation for the opening of their new plant by the end of the year.

With all the problems in the oil patch, the arrival of the first load of aspen gives the local economy a much-needed shot in the arm.

Groups suffering from lack of attendance

There was a time not too many years ago when the ski ball was one of the big dances in town.

But that's changed.

Ski club president Al Dumke says the club is looking at having a dance during the ski season, after a disappointing turnout at their recent ski ball.

The problem of poor attendance is also bothering the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce. Less than 20 people attended their most recent dinner meeting.

President Marty Prentice has indicated the chamber may go with a noon luncheon meeting for their Nov. 26 meeting.

Editor's Notes

Even the golf club, with 530 members, only drew 39 people for a recent meeting, called to consider borrowing $550,000. It just seems people are too busy.

A couple 'new features' in The Western

Review is the weather box which appears every week on page two and Coffee With Chris, which runs every two weeks. We welcome the creative writing of Chris Kreiser, a recent newcomer to Drayton Valley, who wanted to try her hand at some light-hearted writing.

The Drayton Valley Kinsmen are to be commended. Besides running their newspaper blackout bingo, they are selling the Christmas Book in support of cystic fibrosis. If you're in need of a good child's Christmas present, this book will fill any stocking.

La Troupe Circus 'clowns' way into hearts

By Gary Logie

'Break-a-leg' — a wish for good luck in theatre jargon.

But, for La Troupe Circus the idea could be taken far more literally as the troupe bounced, balanced, and flipped their way through an enjoyable show at the Frank Maddock Rec Plex last Tuesday evening.

La Troupe's original brand of visual humor mixed with circus acts works on crowds of all ages because of the simplicity of the underlying plots coupled with sheer agility of the performers.

Their gymnastic and acrobatic prowess blended nicely into an, at times, highly energetic show.

In the opening vignette the performers silently introduced themselves with the aid of a rope which seemingly came to life without any direction from the crew as with childish abandon each pranced and played with it.

Ultimately, the rope became a huge slingshot spitting a nerf ball into the crowd, but only after the crowd was convinced the spongy sphere had the rigidity of a cannon ball.

The highlight of the show, judging from crowd reaction, had to be the slapstick comedy of the clown acts.

In a style reminiscent of the glory days of vaudeville and silent movies the clowns used a comic blend of mime to delight the 150-odd theatre goers with simple, visual parlayals and crowd involve ment.

Jackie the Clown tries in vain to solicit a kiss from this unwilling spectator.

Jackie the Clown 'Jac queline Gosselin, co founder of the company' was superb soliciting a kiss priceless.

The boy, far more interested in being out for the night than even talking to a girl, drew raucous laughter as he made faces, finally accepting only when Jackie closed her eyes and puckered.

'That's why you don't get married,' is how one young boy summed up the situation.

The gentleman, much to everyone's pleasure, sur rendered not one, but two kisses to the amorous clown. He instantly became her 'sweet sugar honeybunch' for the remainder of the skill and several reappearances of Jackie.

One of those reap pearances came during the see-saw routine, when Jacqueline teams up with fellow Troupe co-founder Renald Laurin. Again, Jackie follows her romantic inclines and attempts to win over Renald's Charlie Chaplin styled clown: their prop — a teeter totter.

The antics that followed could best be described as silly, but fun, as the pair climb ed, twisted and curled themselves in various contorted positions attempting to conquer the teeter totter and each other.

Just as the clowns were the high point, the low point was in the amount of straight gymnastic and acrobatic movement.

Although choreographed to original music specifically for the spots and performed with amazing grace and agility, they left much of the crowd wanting.

The juggling acts, again of a high degree, were enter taining, but alas, also lacked any real show stopping ef fects. Pierre LeClere's tumbling during a high toss added a nice touch, but the routine still lacked real emotion.

La Troupe Circus was Drayton Valley Presents first production of the year and, all in all it was an enjoyable evening, despite the slow spots.

Platz planning fund-raising run to B.C.

By Frank Ryan
There's been a drastic change in Jamie Platz's life. The 11-year-old Buck Creek cancer victim is now totally blind in his right eye and has very low vision in the left eye.

Jamie, who began losing his sight in April of last year, after surgeons removed part of a cancerous tumor behind an eye, refuses to let the handicap discourage him.

The youngster, who developed a spinal tumor when he was 18 months old that eventually spread to an optic nerve, has had 68 operations since he was born.

"He says he wants to run to B.C. and meet Terry Fox's parents. That's always been his goal. He wants to raise money for cancer research, spinal cord research and optic nerve research," Gail Platz stated.

However, his mother says the trip is still up in the air. If it happens, likely in the summer of '87, the Grade 5 student at Elementary B will likely try to walk, but will also take a wheelchair.

"He's been wanting to do this, even before Terry Fox died," his mother says.

"I'm willing to let Jamie do whatever he wants. He's been through so much," Gail Platz explained.

Jamie Platz is now preparing himself to learn braille. That process has already started at his Drayton Valley school.

Elson Keown, Elementary B principal says a specialist was out last week to do some testing and to confirm the sight problems.

Tomorrow, a specialist from the CNIB will be visiting the school. Keown says the school is getting some equipment in so Jamie can learn braille. An in-service workshop for the teachers is also planned. "We're looking at the best ways we can give him an education," Keown added.

Keown is very impressed with Jamie Platz. "He handles the problem very well. It's just amazing. His attitude is really good."

Despite the latest setback, doctors have told Jamie there is a chance his sight could be restored. He travelled to the Cross Cancer Institute in Edmonton last Friday for further tests.

Another roadblock to ripper

The RCMP have run into another roadblock in their investigation of a biker that ripped up the eighth green at the Drayton Valley golf course last August.

Const. Phil Avison who has been handling the investigation, says the RCMP re-opened the file when they received a tip through Crime Stoppers. However, he says they had already investigated that angle.

"I don't foresee any charges," Avison told The Western Review. The file will remain open, but unsolved.

Local nitro racer getting into the gasoline business

Brad and Frank Janishewski at the pumps.

Brad Janishewski is stepping behind a new steering wheel.

Janishewski, a local nitro funny car racer, is now at the helm at the local Gulf station.

Janishewski took over the station, on the north side of Drayton Valley, on October 27.

"It'll help offset my racing costs," he says about the deal. "It's a neat deal," he says, pointing out he'll get direct sponsorship for his car from the patrons of the gas bar and garage.

But the similarity of Janishewski's racing life and the service station doesn't stop with his ownership. His pit crew will be working as mechanics in the station which is open 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except on Saturdays and Sundays when they open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The operation also qualifies as a family deal. While Brad spends his days working as a salesman at Woodland Chrysler his father works at the station and his mother does the books.

The station will also include a "speed shop." Janishewski says drivers will be able to purchase "speed accessories" at lower prices than in the city. "I have a large inventory coming in," he added.

"We'll also have a mechanic available all the time," he explains. When they aren't working on customers' cars the crew will spend their time on Janishewski's nitro funny car. "Once the racing starts I'll be hauling the car in," he adds.

The expected switch over to Petro Canada, the company which bought out Gulf recently, won't be coming for a while, Janishewski says.

"We'll change to Petro Can next summer," he adds.

Farmers Market hours

The Drayton Valley Farmer's Market has new hours.

Starting tomorrow (Wednesday) until their final market on Dec. 17, their new hours will be from 11:30 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Market manager Lynn Merschel says this will allow the exhibitors to get set up before noon, and will accommodate those people who like to come out during their lunch hour. It will also ease some of the traffic around the mall at noon.

Merschel says the exhibitors made the change so they could serve the public better. "We're there to serve the public," Merschel explained.

No new MD news

Despite rumors, Municipal Affairs sources say no decision has been made on the possible formation of a new municipal district around Drayton Valley.

"There is no official statement other than various people are still working on it. There is no decision or estimate on time lines," said Municipal Affairs.

Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Cripps has said in the past she doesn't expect to hear anything until at least January 1987.

Municipal Affairs' next move on the formation will likely be a series of public meetings to decide exactly how people wish to proceed, said assistant deputy minister Tom Forgrave.

Lindale golf course

Year-round $5 million resort is planned

By Lorne Christensen
A $5 million resort development is being planned around the Lindale golf course, according to the course's new owners.

Bucar Realty Ltd. of Calgary took ownership of the course and the section of land it sits on November 1. Sandy MacDonald, spokesman for the new owners, says they are planning a "private club" with approximately 900 sites for resort development for sale. Two hundred of the sites are already serviced, by a previous owner, and ready to be sold.

"It will eventually become a private club," he says about the course, now called Birchwood Village Greens.

MacDonald says they are hoping to sell "title ownership" to anyone buying into the development. "We're trying for that and we don't expect any problems," he adds. The concept for the plan is anchored around the golf course and a proposed $1 million clubhouse and swimming pool facility. The "condominium" style sharing of facilities is an idea the company "pioneered in Alberta," MacDonald says.

A similar year-around resort development is currently being constructed by the company near Bowden southwest of Red Deer. There, Bucar has developed Carefree Resorts on Gleniffer Lake.

"It's basically the same thing here," he adds.

Lots, ranging in size from three-quarters of an acre to one and a third acres will be sold throughout the section of land. Prices for the lots will go from about $9,500 to $15,000 for the "larger pieces."

"There are some beautiful spots looking directly over the greens and fairways," MacDonald explained. He says they are looking at marketing about 90 per cent of the lots to Edmonton and area investors. "Cliff Poproski, (former manager of the Lindale club) will be utilized in sales in Edmonton," MacDonald said.

The approximate 900 sites will include everything from year-around residents in houses to mobile homes to trailers for short visits. "We'll eventually develop the whole thing," he says, adding they now own land on both sides of the road and river. The golf course itself will not undergo too many changes because they feel "it is adequate for the residents."

"It's a gem of a piece of property." "It's a nice rural leisure atmosphere not far from major centres," he added. One of the centres to derive benefits from the planned project will be Drayton Valley. Part-owner Stan Bucar says the Carefree project is a good example of what will happen here. It has generated business for the nearby communities of Bowden and Innisfail since being started in April of 1985.

The overall plan will see the developers market the property until it's all sold, an estimate of five years, and then the entire development becomes the property of the lot owners. "The developer will walk away when it's done," MacDonald says, adding the sales of lots will be around the $9 million figure.

"It'll be run by an association (of lot owners)," MacDonald pointed out.

MacDonald says Bucar Realty decided to purchase the land, at an undisclosed amount, because they saw the need for a resort in the area. "All over Alberta there is a need for recreation (resorts)," MacDonald explained.

"We saw an opportunity to develop," he added.

With the new development comes the new name Birchwood Village Greens. MacDonald says they decided to change the name because the course had a "bad history with bankruptcy and floods." "We wanted to start fresh," he says.

The fresh start will happen quickly once the red tape is cleared with the government and county. It took eight weeks for Bucar to ink the deal with former owners Nova Scotia Savings and Loan.

A spokesperson from Nova Scotia Savings and Loan said the reason they sold the section of land is "it's hard to manage property from Nova Scotia (when it's in Alberta)."

The spokesperson, Joan Homans, declined to comment on the purchase price of the land when contacted at her office in Halifax.

The Bucar family itself, has been in the land and real estate industry for 27 years. They also own Bucar RV and Bucar Holdings, both Calgary-based.

MacDonald says most of the staff from the club are being kept.

Devils use own special magic to beat Rocky Rockets

By Gary Logie

It was a night for tricks and the Devils delivered en route to an easy 9-2 win over visiting Rocky Mountain House Rockets last Friday.

The Halloween crowd set a perfect stage as the Devils worked their own special magic on the Rockets' goaltender, firing 45 shots in his direction.

Many of them found the mark.

The Devils struck for three unanswered goals in the first period and never looked back. Brad Pankiewicz led the way with a three-goal effort. Blair Shimabashi added a pair while Robin Cockwill, Chad Allen, Troy Kelly and Dean Mulgrew notched singles.

The Rockets got on the board early in the second, but didn't come close to scaring the Devils as much as the ghoulish spectators did.

Devils coach Preston Yachimec was pleased with the way they played, especially Brad Pankiewicz and the defensive troops.

"Brad had a real good game and so did Robin Cockwill. They all had a really good game. The defense was really strong. It's almost unheard of to get through the first period with no goals scored against you and to have only three penalties in a period," Yachimec said.

As far as junior hockey goes, the game was "fairly clean," he said.

"There were only two fights all night. We tell the players to discipline themselves and to skate away after the whistle. We try to stay away from the players milling around.

"We have lots of good talent in the dressing room and the guys are saying this is the best junior team they've seen and want to go right to the provincials, so that helps to keep it clean. We've also had a few guys change their attitude and they have really come around for us," said the rookie coach.

It was the Devils' fifth straight league victory without a loss. Their next action is this Friday when they travel to Barrhead. In their first meeting with the Elks, the Devils chalked up an 8-2 decision.

An unidentified Devil rolls the puck past the open side during Friday night's action.

DV Meter downs Red Deer in opener

By Wendy Schneider
DV Meter opened the regular season on a winning note last Saturday as they downed Red Deer 8-4.

Bryson Kuzek led the Drayton Valley squad with three goals. Robin Smashuk, Scott Riske, Travis Brigley, Darcy Lauder and Brooker Tralenburg had the other goals.

Smashuk, selected as DV Meter's outstanding player in the league opener, also set up two goals. Riske was the team's second star with Glen Hutchinson picking up the third star award for his defensive efforts.

DV Meter travel to Miss this Saturday for their second league game.

basketball court alongside the existing volleyball court to meet the need for more basketball facilities.

Noon-hour hockey offered

It's lunch time and there is nothing to do, right?

Wrong.

Every noon hour on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Fridays hockey enthusiasts strap on the skates for noon hockey.

Anyone is welcome and the program needs more players. The no equipment "fun" hockey costs $2 per time or $60 for the season. The $60 pass could mean more than 100 chances to play in the no hit, no slapshot game.

Anyone interested is encouraged to go to the arena and join.

Cougar is shot and left at site

Public assistance is being requested after a female cougar was found shot near Lodgepole on October 20.

Evansburg Fish and Wildlife have issued a call for the public's help in finding out who shot and left the animal eight and a half miles west of Lodgepole.

An investigation into the incident has revealed the cougar was shot and left in the ditch of a Dome

Petroleum lease road, accessible to the general public.

The head and four paws of the large cat were removed and the hide was left intact.

Anyone with information regarding the find is urged to contact Evansburg Fish and Wildlife at 727-3635 or use the Outdoor Observer toll-free number (1-800-642-3600). Callers may remain anonymous.

Hunter is elected

John Hunter was elected as the new president of the Pro Street Auto club last week.

The local auto club held their first meeting of the year to elect officers.

Filling the vice president's position was George Martin with Brent Neufeld elected as the new secretary and Hack Hamdon was named treasurer.

"We hope to have the first club project in November," said Hunter. The club is planning to display cars at the Derrick Club. They are also looking at raffling off a trip and plan to have their next meeting on November 25 at 8 p.m. in the Tamarack Room at the Westwinds.

Bougerolle

Area girl wins barrel racing title

By Lorne Christensen

It was a first.
The first time a girl had won. Won the right to use a horse trailer for a year free of charge, that is.

Each year in the Lakeland Barrel Association finals the top point getter in the timed events is awarded use of a horse trailer.

This year it was Evansburg-area barrel racer LeeAnne Bougerolle's turn.

"It's the first time a girl has won it, it's usually the guys that win it," Bougerolle explained. She was awarded the prize after finishing the four event barrel racing finals with 130 points. Each first place finish is worth 10 points, 30 points to second, 20 to third and 10 points to fourth. Bougerolle rode to three seconds and one first on her way to winning the barrel racing crown and the trailer for a year in the finals held in Camrose recently.

"I didn't expect it," she confessed, adding she went into the event in second place overall after the season. "I really figured Anne Olave, the regular season leader would win," Bougerolle said.

But Bougerolle got 1st tier with each of the four runs, posting a final time of 11.61 seconds around the barrel.

But the horse trailer award and the barrel racing title, which includes a saddle, weren't the only awards. The 17-year-old Selk Beach high school student came home with her horse Jewel was also named Horse of the Year by the other barrel racers.

"I wanted it so bad but I thought Anne Olave would get it, it kind of surprised me," she added. Jewel and Bougerolle have been together for four years in barrel racing. She says they "are getting to know how each other work."

But Bougerolle plans to give Jewel part of the winter off and get ready for the upcoming season. "It's cool for her to have a break, too. I know I need one so I imagine she does," Bougerolle explains.

Looking ahead to the LeeAnne Bougerolle rounds the barrel on Jewel. Inset of LeeAnne.

next barrel racing season Bougerolle says she'll start out going to the pro rodeos and if she wins "keep on going."

"There, you don't make any mistakes," she says.

But making mistakes isn't something Bougerolle did often during the last barrel racing season. She finished comfortably in second place and travelled to about 40 rodeos over the year. "We did six in one weekend," she added.

Doing so many rodeos means a lot of driving and a lot of expenses. "If I have a sponsor I'd be away," she added, pointing out it's not something she'll get rich on.

Bougerolle credits her family with making things easier over the year.

"I'd like to thank my whole family for putting up with my moods, they helped," she added.

Lampighters, Retreads, Good Timers, Slowtimers, Old Pros, Oldstars, Tired Tigers, Old Plugs, Golden Eagles, Rusty Blades, and the Mountain Men.

They're all names of hockey teams. But don't go looking for their names in the NHL guide.

All the names are associated with oldtimer hockey teams.

Hockey fans got a good look at the calibre of hockey these oldtimers (95 and over) play during the recent Lampighters second annual tourney. While the players are a little older, they play a smart game, which is evident by the way they pass the puck around.

Several years ago, during my association with the Red Deer Capri Oldtimers, I remember a game we played at Bashaw against their intermediate team. After the first period, with the oldtimers leading 5-1, people in the coffee shop couldn't believe their eyes. The oldtimers, despite their age, dominated the score board and the puck.

Swapping buttons and pins are a big item on the oldtimers' tournament circuit.

While we didn't see a lot of buttons or pins at the Lampighters tourney, we've got several hundred from the Pacific Cup in Victoria and the Prairie Cup in Edmonton.

Some of the team names on our buttons include the Comox Valley Whistle Stoppers, Camrose Good Timers, Edmonton Slowtimers, Saskatoon Old Pros, Leduc Rusty Blades, Red Deer Retreads, Port Alberni Old Puckers, Ponoka Chevys, Oldstars, Turtleford Tired Tigers, Port McMurray Tar and Turkeys and the Hum bolt Old Plugs.

At the '81 Pacific Cup, we traded away our Red Deer sletson to a lady from Turtleford, Saskatchewan for 12 pins. She had wanted a Red Deer sletson for years and was glad to part with a dozen pins, several reflecting international competition.

Our collection also includes the 'C' division gold medal at the Pacific Cup in '81 and the silver medal the following year at the Prairie Cup.

Plus all the memories of our association with oldtimers hockey.

Farmfair '86 horse pull

Draft horse fans have a real treat in store for them during the provincial draft horse pulling competitions at Farmfair '86.

Beginning on Friday, Nov. 7 at 7:30 p.m., the shouts of the teamsters will echo through the agricon arena as they urge their teams to pull more and more weight with each turn. Maximum team weight is 2,400 pounds and they begin with 2,000-pound starting pull; 400 pounds will be added to the sled each time with the team that pulls the most weight declared the overall winner. The powder puff division winner is determined by pounds pulled over the team's weight.

There is $5,500 in prize money and gift certificates up for grabs over the four divisions, so competition will be stiff.

Former Blade in scuffle

Former junior Blade Doug Bacon from Drayton Valley was suspended for one game for his part in a locker room fight following an AJHL game recently.

Bacon, playing for the Fort Saskatchewan Trader squad was involved in a fight with Hobbema's Daryl Harpe during a recent Alberta Junior Hockey League game in Hobbema.

An article in The Wetaskiwin Times talks about Bacon and Harpe holding "round two" of a fight in the Hobbema dressing room, while the game was still going on.

"He came in here and he was chasing me all over the place and I'm running around hoping for somebody to come in," the article quotes Harpe as saying. During the ensuing action Harpe landed a right to Bacon's face.

"I punched him in the face and my hand hurt. He's got the hardest face I've ever hit," the article went on to quote Harpe. "I didn't feel safe even when I was on top of him - he could bench press my whole family," Harpe told the Wetaskiwin reporter.

The fight was broken up when Hobbema coach and ex-NHL heavyweight Peter Driscoll "bounced Bacon out by the scruff of the neck and delivered him to the Trader coaches and directors," the article says.

Trader president Larry Needham told the Wetaskiwin paper the blame for the incident should be equally "shouldered" by Bacon and the Hobbema player.

Mad-Duck Press

School paper needs more advertising to keep afloat

By Lorne Christensen
It's just 'ducky.'
It's also a little mad and as zany at times.

It's Drayton Valley's second newspaper.

It's the Mad-duck Press, back and kicking for another year.

Hatched last spring, the monthly tabloid high school newspaper took off from day one. Now, with summer gone and school back in, the Mad-Duck Press has surfaced again.

"It's better this year than last year," says Stacey Orlesky, managing editor of the paper and a second-year veteran. Her comments are echoed by advertising editor Gillian MacLellan who also feels the second time around is working better and things "are coming together easier."

"The teachers are impressed too," says MacLellan, also president of the student council.

"People know it can work; they've seen it," she adds. And the wacky, or is it quirky, newspaper is getting lots of laughs.

The humor ranges from the funny, but remarkably truthful, look at the 10 best times not to go shopping compiled by "grocery picker extraordinaire" Darren Pinkoski in "Darren's Corner to Dear Juan's" advice. The Horrorscope, Believe it or Don't, Gossip column and "Are we normal?" article round out the wacky side of the paper.

On the serious side, a poem in tribute to a former student, an in-depth look at the activities available at the school and a revealing article about being an exchange student highlight the latest issue.

But while the Mad-Duck remains fun, there is a learning side to the project. "We're learning more about it (the newspaper business)," says MacLellan.

A big part of the paper is the advertising sales, where the students get the money to continue publishing the project.

"The hardest thing to do is get the advertising," MacLellan confesses. MacLellan says she hopes people will realize the project is working and support it. "It hasn't been done here before," she adds, pointing out they want to keep the paper afloat.

On the editorial side managing editor Orlesky says they are trying to get more students interested along with implementing some new ideas. New additions to the paper include a "soap opera" and more columns.

"It would be nice if we could have someone at every event (in the school)," she added.

"It's not just all fun," Orlesky smiles pointing out the next issue is due on the high school newsstands in mid-November.

"Project 88" pushing for a new curling club facility

By Lorne Christensen
A new curling facility in Drayton Valley remains one of the goals for the local club, according to their new president.

Bruce Clemmer said they have formed a "new building committee" for "Project 88," a push to build the new facility Clemmer, along with vice presidents Karen Balanuk and Carl Passy, will be steering the club towards this goal and others through the next year. Balanuk will be overseeing the bonspiel, draws, and building fund committees with Passy looking after the secretary/treasurer, chairman, bar chairman, bookings and zone personnel at the club.

The executive, 31 in total, includes 16 people from past executives and 14 new members.

Clemmer says they are also looking for anyone else interested and who has the time to work on their committees.

"If they can help us out in any way, it makes it easier for everybody," he explained.

Some of the projects they will be working on in conjunction with "Project 88" include fund raising rallies and the sale of their land to the government. "We're still dealing with the government on the sale of the rink. We'll find out as soon as possible what the rink's worth, and what they're willing to pay us," Clemmer explained.

Another new idea the club will be trying out is a newsletter to members. Clemmer says they hope to get out four or five during the season to keep members up dated on the executives' work.

Things are popping at the curling club. This 1987 Chrysler Magic Wagon valued at $19,000 is being raffled off by the club to help raise money towards a new building. Members of raffle committee (left to right) (ath-Busterholt, Brent Innis, Karen Balanuk, Mary Dusterholt, Earl Nixon and Deb Nixon pop their heads around the van. The draw will be on March 28 with only 6,000 tickets being sold for the van from Woodland Chrysler.

Club is doing more advertising

By Lorne Christensen

"Promotion" and "better advertising" are the key for successful bonspiels, according to the curling club's new president.

Since assuming the duties as president, Bruce Clemmer has been working hard, along with a lot of other volunteers.

"All we're doing is more advertising," Clemmer explained about the club's attempt to reduce losses from bonspiels. Last year the club lost close to $2,000 in the men's, ladies' and mixed bonspiels.

"It's always a concern," Clemmer said. Some suggestions to reduce the losses included reducing the number prizes or to raise entry fees. "There are mixed feelings," he explained.

"We've always had very good prizes," he pointed out, adding they would like to keep the good prizes to attract rinks. Clemmer says they also decided not to increase bonspiel fees, to keep at an "accepted" level.

"We have to increase the number in the bonspiel," he explained when questioned what they are planning to do. Part of the plan to increase the numbers in the bonspiel includes trying to attract rinks from Edmonton.

"We're looking to the city," he said, adding they are also looking for support from some of the smaller clubs in the area.

Life

Writer takes light-hearted look at life

By Lorne Christensen

Life. It's a subject well documented.

From the award-winning magazine 'Life' to humorous portrayals in comic strips like 'Family Circus', life is a favorite topic.

Now The Western Review has its own version. Life with Chris Kreiser.

Every two weeks Western Review readers will have the chance to have 'Coffee with Chris.' It's a light-hearted look at life at home, life with the kids and life with the husband.

"Whatever happens at home," Chris says goes in the column. The native of Rocky Mountain House moved here when her husband Fred was transferred in with fish and wildlife.

"I love it; the people are always so friendly. In the first two days I had more company than we did in two years in Edmonton," Kreiser laughs.

Since the move, two months ago, Kreiser decided to try her hand at writing, something she has always enjoyed.

"I write lots of letters," she says, explaining how she got started writing. "Whenever I feel like writing I'll do two or three at a time," she adds.

So far in her columns she's touched on the frustrating side of hanging curtains, an agonizing look at getting her young son's picture taken and this week a whimsical look at preparing for Christmas shopping.

Kreiser does admit some of the lighthearted look at life comes from experiences which didn't seem funny when they happened.

"At the time I don't see too much humor but looking back I laugh," she adds. "A sense of humor is the only thing that gets you through it," the mother of two says.

So far the column is getting rave reviews.

Several (people) have come up and said it's really funny," Kreiser says. "Even Chris Kreiser, with her cup of coffee and her typewriter.

Fred (Kreiser, her husband) doesn't seem to mind," she adds. Kreiser says their children Derek, 5, and Rachael, 3, are "too little" to understand the column which often lampoons their actions.

"I'm saving the columns as blackmail for when they get bigger," she jokes.

But before the readers of The Western Review can feast their eyes on the column, Kreiser takes it to her sister in Rocky.

"I take the copy to my sister (Dorothy) to read; she's my best critic," Kreiser says. She confesses the idea of being "in print" is "exciting." "I've always wanted to write," she adds.

Kreiser spends all of her writing time off in a small room in the corner of their house. Pictures of her family adorn the large oak desk. The desk she told Fred she needed to write. On top sits the typewriter, a Christmas gift from her husband.

"It was really nice and I was thrilled," she says about the gift. She decided to put the gift to use after Fred commented he hadn't "seen any books out yet."

But with the "books" on the backburner for now, the budding writer is targeting all her talents towards her column and a lighter side of life.

One more chance

Drayton Valley is getting "one more chance" to save the troubled Crisis Line, say its organizers.

Disappointing turn outs at two previous volunteer gathering meetings have put the line's survival on hold.

The line needs anywhere between 30 and 40 volunteers to staff it from Thursday evening until Sunday after noons.

On the average the line receives around six calls per week, said Jim Wolfe.

The volunteers are asked to staff the line for as long as possible, but they try not to exceed eight hours a day.

Plans to perhaps buy call forwarding equipment, to allow the volunteers to work from their own homes have also been put on hold while the line's board decides whether to fold.

"People can survive without the Crisis Line, but the line makes it that much easier to survive. The people who will need the service we provide," said Wolfe earlier.

Eight vs eight

By Gary Logie

Area farmers gave an Alberta government task force a cold reception last Thursday.

The task force, chaired by Dallas Schmidt, a former agricultural minister and M.L.A. was in Drayton Valley to talk about problems with the Hail and Crop Insurance Plan.

However, despite one of Alberta's worst years for agriculture, the informal discussion drew just eight people.

By comparison the task force also numbered eight.

The turnout may have been as dismal as the weather, but it didn't stop lively discussion, although the task force couldn't give definite solutions to the many problems faced by farmers across Alberta.

Prior to starting the Alberta-wide tour, which is split into two task forces, they reviewed agricultural policies in the States and other Canadian provinces.

Chairman Schmidt is used to sparse crowds and expressed "you don't need bushels for excellent dialogue."

He said reception around the province has been "fantastic."

"And the dialogue here was hot and heavy; everybody's full of good ideas."

"The producers have pointed out we have a good system, but it needs to be reviewed. We have to keep change with production costs," he said.

Under the present system producers could receive up to 70 per cent of their costs back through Alberta Hail and Crop. But the system for qualifying is based on complex high-risk areas, area averages and how much of the crop was actually lost.

Much of what the farmers have been saying is that they'd prefer to cover themselves, said Schmidt. But there has to be some way of recognizing the individual needs of everybody.

"They understand increased coverage (under an individual plan) would also increase premium costs, but they have done a lot of homework before coming in and are willing to pay for what they get — they want insurance not guaranteed income."

Flood relief

Hardships generally bring out the best in people.

An example is the Eastford Play School.

Their facilities and equipment were ravaged by flood waters last July and they put out the call for help.

Now, several groups have kicked in funds to help the school out in their time of need.

A spokesman for the play school said they are thankful for the money received from the Legion Elks, Lions and Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Fire department

Inflatable bags purchased

By Lorne Christensen

It's a complement.

The Drayton Valley fire department's newest equipment will "complement" the "Jaws of Life" in the rescue truck, according to fire chief Sheldon Fuson.

Five inflatable bags, worth $6,000, were purchased by the department to aid in everything from freeing people from car wrecks to temporarily patching leaking tanks.

The funds for the new equipment came from the drive home service campaign the fire department operated, Fuson said.

Fuson and the volunteer firemen gathered at the hall last week to watch Peter Snyder, from North American Hydraulics, an Edmonton company, demonstrate the air bags.

"We can use them for patching to lifting," Fuson said following the demonstration. The "versatile" bags will also come in handy when dealing with "remote locations." "It's too far for the jaws (of life) generator we can pop off the door or windshield with the bags," Fuson explained.

The rugged bags are easily inflated with a bottle of compressed air.

Fuson says they plan to purchase five more bags, some in larger sizes, once they have the funds.

Fire chief Sheldon Fuson lifts the fire truck with one of the bags. The inset shows the volunteer fire department with their new equipment.

Town council Explained government procedure

Members of the Drayton Valley town council attended a familiarization seminar in Edmonton last week.

Mayor Bob Mayhew, councillors Howard Olsen, Charlie Miner, Tom McGee, Alex Salfi, Jean Saunders and Dave Lundberg along with municipal secretary Robin Wenbourne and town manager Manny Deol attended the all-day Tuesday, half day Wednesday sessions.

Representatives of Municipal Affairs and the town's lawyer were on hand to brief the group.

Deol called the sessions "great." However, he indicated it will be a while before the impact would be realized.

Council will get another introduction to the processes of local government when they attend the 80th annual convention of the Alberta Urban Municipalities Association Nov. 18-22 in Edmonton.

"With an unusually high number of candidates having run for municipal office and the consequent number of new faces on councils, this aspect of our convention will be very important," says association president Doug Fee.

Peace, justice tour tells tales of man's inhumanities

By Gary Legie

An interested crowd of 55 people turned out last Wednesday for an informal discussion on world affairs at the Drayton Valley Legion.

The crowd gathered to hear seven teenagers give first-hand accounts of war, torture, racism, starvation and oppression in places world-wide and "right here in Alberta."

Ayelet Kuper, a Canadian Jew spoke openly of the horrors endured by her family as the Nazis tried to wipe out the "impure races" during World War II.

And now with anti-semitic feelings generating from Alberta she is deeply upset.

"It hurts me. These people don't even know me, yet, they hate me."

"Members of the Klu Klux Klan, neo-Nazis, white supremacists are right here in Alberta and we have to make sure prejudices don't get the upper hand. We have to make sure something like the holocaust never, ever happens again."

Art George, a B.C. native told of how he overcame racism from the community and from a teacher. The racism was a major cause of him turning to drugs and alcohol.

Now off both, he counsels other people with the same problems at a native friendship centre "open to anybody. Native, white or otherwise. I'm willing to help them all," he said.

Antonio Romero from El Salvador told a different, but similar tale. His father was murdered by the Salvadorean death squads for belonging to a people's union.

His famous uncle, Archbishop Romero, openly spoke out about the oppressive regime and also payed with his life.

Antonio, who interpreted for Nicaraguan refugees Ernes Morales, agreed with his Central American counterpart in saying financial and military aid from Canada and the rest of the world does no good.

"The Contras (Nicaraguan Army) are funded and trained by the CIA. This oppression has cost more than 30,000 deaths, injuries and missing," said the Nicaraguan.

"The economic aid doesn't help the people," said Antonio. "It helps the government buy more military equipment."

Both pleaded with the crowd to do all they can so "one day we will have peace in the places we call home."

The "awareness discussion" was part of a cross-Canada youth peace and justice tour being participated in by 70 teenagers from around the world. The tour was brought here by the local Legion, the Pembina Institute and H.W. Pickup school.

Plan pointers

Chamber of Commerce president Martin Prentice (right) looks on as Greg Birch explains some of the details of the municipal plan. Birch, a long-range planner with the Yellowhead Regional Planning Commission (YRPC), was on hand with Rabin Moorhead, another planning commission rep. at an open house last week. Moorhead said they had very few visitors to the open house and are planning another one in mid-November.

Annual Farmfair goes Nov. 6-16

The Quarter Horse Association of Alberta returns to Northlands AgriCom with another offering of outstanding quarter horses for their 13th annual sale at Farmfair '88.

The sale, which takes place in the agrium, features nearly 60 head of proven halter and performance horses as well as foundation brood mares. A pre-sale demonstration of these horses will be held following the Maine Anjou show on Friday, Nov. 14 with the sale following at 1 p.m.

If you use, show or breed horses or if you are just a fan, this will be a fine opportunity to check out new bloodlines and perhaps add to the herd at home. The demonstration in a working arena will give you ample opportunity to see the horses in a natural setting. All sale animals will be stabled in Hall B of the agrium from Nov. 12 on, so you'll be able to talk to the owners and examine the horses more closely.

Mark the sale date on your calendar and make sure to attend this and many of the other fine shows at Farmfair '88, Nov. 6 to 16.

Patrons targeted by bandits

Between Sept. 25 and Oct. 12, numerous thefts from motor vehicles have occurred around the Pine Inn in Lodgepole.

Everything from rifles to tires have been taken, with the thefts usually occurring during the evening hours.

Crime Stoppers will pay a cash reward for information leading to the arrest of any of the persons responsible for this offence. If you have information on this or any other criminal offence, call CRIME STOPPERS, toll-free, at 1-800-922-TIPS (922-8477). You do not have to reveal your identity, and if your information leads to an arrest, you qualify for a reward.

Police probe boat motor theft

On Saturday, Oct. 4 between 11 p.m. and 10 a.m., the following items were stolen from a boat located at the intersection of 49 Street and 46 Avenue:

- a 9.9 h.p. outboard engine, make: Johnson, year: 1984, color: white
- Two (2) lifejackets, blue and green in color
- one (1) set of children's water skis
- several other water sporting goods

Crime Stoppers will pay a cash reward for information leading to the arrest of any of the person(s) responsible for this offence. If you have information on this or any other criminal offence, call CRIME STOPPERS, toll-free, at 1-800-922-TIPS (922-8477).

You do not have to reveal your identity, and if your information leads to an arrest, you qualify for a reward.

Edna Hockley to host winter WI meetings

The October 28 meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Agnes Regenwetter with eight members present.

During the winter, meetings will be held at 1 p.m. starting in November. This will be held at Edna Hockley's at Violet Grove.

Sixty dollars was earned by the sale of jams, jellies and plants for World Food Day. This sum will be forwarded to the provincial office for distribution.

President Winnie Hamerlinck drew members' attention to concerns of women in Australia regarding artificial insemination and problems which can arise from the situation.

Florence Romano gave a report on the handicraft tea and points earned by the local branch. She also reported on preparations for the Christmas fair saying all the tables have been booked.

The fair is to be held Nov. 15 at the Rec Plex with doors to open to the public at noon. Admission is 25 cents and coffee and goodies are available.

It was decided not to nominate anyone for the citizen of the year award this year.

WI members all over Alberta are being asked to contact Connie Osterman, minister for social services, urging that a 24-hour crisis line be established for battered women and their children. A copy will be sent to MLA Shirley Crippa.

Forence Romano taught members how to do tarpon embroidery.

New members are always welcome. Contact Winnie Hamerlinck or any branch member for further details.

SCHOOL NOTEBOOK

Eldorado

The parent association's monthly meeting goes tonight (Tuesday) at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Dr. Leroy Sloan, Parkland's assistant school superintendent, who will address parents' concerns on pupil-teacher ratios.

Children will be released at 2:15 p.m. Nov. 12 because of a staff meeting.

Nov. 13 and 14 will see parent/teacher interviews. The first session will be from 6 p.m.-9 p.m. on the 13th and from 9 a.m. - noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on the 14th.

In conjunction with parent/teacher interviews the school will also be holding a book sale in their library both days.

Frank Maddock

A special conference in Edmonton on nuclear awareness has drawn the attention of five FMHS students.

The Nov. 7-10 conference will be a series of forums featuring Canada's role in the arms race.

The students will travel to the seminars with several students from Seba Beach school.

The $60 cost per student will be split between FMHS and the student union.

During some of the sessions the 1,600 odd participants from different schools will be broken down into groups and asked to submit reports offering solutions, overviews or ideas.

Elementary B

Elementary B students will be travelling to St. Anthony's Nov. 10 to hear percussionist Rick Todd perform. The Elementary students are without a gym while renovations continue at their school and St. A's generously offered them the use of theirs for the day.

Two days later on Nov. 12 the students will again get to see a cultural event as Cora Taylor drops by the school to read from several of her novels on Canadian life.

After hearing Taylor talk the students will be released early on the 12th as it is also the day for the monthly staff meeting. Students will be out at 2:15 p.m.

Bretton Elementary

Alberta Culture's travelling museum is in town today. The caravan is open from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and offers displays on Alberta's history from one-room schoolhouses to dinosaurs.

All Parkland schools will be closed for Remembrance Day, Nov. 11.

Tomahawk

Report cards for the first term are due Oct. Nov. 7.

Following the weekend to digest the reports, parent/teacher interviews will be held during the afternoon and evening of Monday, Nov. 10.

Lindale

Alberta Culture's travelling history caravan will be in Lindale on Nov. 7. The caravan is making its rounds throughout the area offering a glimpse of Alberta's colorful history.

Principal Carl McColl wishes to extend further congratulations to Jim Holmgren, who received a beautiful gold pocket watch from the County of Leduc school system for his 34 years as a bus driver.

First-term report cards will go out Nov. 21 and the next day will be the Lindale Auction to help raise funds to pay for a new 66-passenger bus they purchased. Donated articles of all types are appreciated.

St. Anthony's

Wednesday and Friday this week will be parent/teacher interviews.

Wednesday the interviews are from 7 p.m. - 9:30 p.m. and from 9 a.m. - 11:30 a.m. on Friday.

Because of the Friday interviews classes have been cancelled for the day.

On Nov. 10 at 11 a.m. students will be treated to a concert by percussionist Rick Todd.

And on Nov. 12 students will be released at 2:15 p.m. because of a staff meeting.

Both volleyball teams are back in action this week in Tomahawk. The boys today (Tuesday) and the girls tomorrow.

Charlene Strocher receives her award for excellence in first-year teaching from school superintendent Mary Tkachuk.

Institute no day off

It was a day off school for the students, but for the Parkland teachers it was business as usual - almost.

Actually, it was a rare reversal with nearly 800 teachers attending seminars Monday, Oct. 27, at Frank Maddock and St. Anthony's schools.

The day-long event was divided into 70 different seminar alternatives involving speakers from the University of Alberta, Edmonton Public Schools, AADAC, Department of Education of Alberta, Parkland school officials, and the provincial government, said organizer Linda Tutty.

They spoke on topics from Genetics in the 80s to Personal Financial Planning to Public Education at the Crossroads or If You Don't Know Where You're Going Any Road Will Take You There.

The keynote speaker, Norman Gobal, secretary general of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession, was unable to attend because of illness.

But, the day wasn't totally devoted to learning as the teachers took time out to honor several of their own.

During the closing ceremonies, Parkland School Superintendent Mary Tkachuk recognized Jenny Harum and her contributions to the teaching profession in Drayton Valley over the last 30 years. Harris retired this year from the H.W. Pickup school.

Also honored for their contributions were first-year teachers Ellen Burzynski from Parkland Village School in Spruce Grove and Charlene Strocher from Entwistle School.

Strocher was chosen as Parkland's award winner in 'Excellence in First Year Teaching' while Burzynski was chosen runner-up.

Strocher was also nominated to represent Parkland in the Alberta Teachers Association's provincial awards for first year excellence.

Both Strocher and Burzynski interned in Drayton Valley last year.

Volunteers needed

ASSE students learning abroad

ASSE International Student Exchange Programs (ASSE) is looking for volunteers to serve as area representatives in their local community.

ASSE provides academic year exchange programs between Canada and Scandinavia, Germany, Switzerland, Great Britain, Holland, France, Spain, Australia, New Zealand and the United States. Students must be 15 to 18 years-of-age and have met all academic and character qualifications. Area representatives recruit and screen prospective host families, interview students to study abroad and supervise the visiting students in their community. Area representatives are reimbursed for their expenses.

ASSE, a non-profit, public benefit organization is affiliated with the Swedish and the Finnish departments of education and works in cooperation with the provincial Ministries of Education.

ASSE enables students to learn about other languages and cultures through active participation in family, school and community life.

For more information please contact: Michelle Puisse, Canadian Director, 350 Tudor Court No. 24, Pointe Claire, Que. H9P 1Z5 (514) 631-7192.

ASSE is also looking for qualified Canadian students wishing to participate on a summer or school year exchange program for 1987/88.

St. A's

MS read-a-thon kicks off

Following a year off, to refreshen the idea, St. Anthony's school will again be participating in the Multiple Sclerosis read-a-thon.

Children from St. A's will be seeking sponsors to donate money for every book they read over the month long program.

All the money they raise will be used to further research for a cure and to help MS sufferers in the Drayton Valley area.

St. Anthony's goal will be to raise as much money as they have in the past, said principal Ron Williams.

Two years ago the school raised $2,300 for MS.

Parents will verify the student's sponsor sheet as to how many books were before they start collecting money.

"You will be reading for the needs of others," said Glenda Niles, an Alberta MS Society spokesperson.

MS, a deterioration of the central nervous system, currently afflicts 35,000 Canadians between the ages of 15

Institute a valuable asset

The annual teachers' institute, held this year at Frank Maddock and St. Anthony's schools Oct. 27, is a valuable asset to the profession, participants said.

In his closing words, Parkland School Superintendent Mary Tkachuk praised the event's organizers and teachers in general.

"You personally the essence of teaching," he told the 700 plus teachers gathered for the day's seminars.

"Every time I walk into one of our classrooms I see quality. You all believe in your ability to influence children and that's critical," said Tkachuk.

Even with our uncertain future in educational funding, quality and direction you are bringing recognition to the noblest of professions.

Brian Tough, a teacher at Memorial school in Stony Plain, said the seminars and future school board plans are a meeting today's needs.

"It has been really good. I'm especially impressed with the changes to the curriculum. There were some areas where changes were needed and it looks good. They look like they're going to meet the needs of the kids," he said.

"It's a valuable experience and a good time to renew old friendships. In a country this large there aren't many good opportunities to see other teachers and exchange ideas," said Tough.

Linda Tutty, a teacher from Stony Plain's Forest Green school and an institute organizer said, "It's our own day to share in local expertise along with outside speakers."

Agricultural subsidies entering GATT talks

By Joe Clark, MP
We have won a round in the fight against unfair international agricultural subsidies.

For the first time in history, the question of agricultural subsidies will be a major part of multilateral trade negotiations, among 92 of the world's major trading nations. Those countries, including Canada are members of the GATT - the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which sets the rules for world trade.

This September, in Punta del Este, Uruguay, ministers from GATT countries met to bring the rules up to date. I led the Canadian delegation, and we had the honor to be the first country to speak. I told the meeting: "This conference must agree to address the real problems of agricultural trade, and to get the negotiations under way quickly. In no other sector is there such an urgent need to achieve a result."

Five days (and nights) of tough negotiations followed. A special sub-committee was established to deal exclusively with agriculture. It continued work which Canada had begun in May in Tokyo, when Prime Minister Mulroney made agriculture an issue at the Economic Summit. The Tokyo initiative was followed by meetings of agricultural officials in Thailand in July, and of ministers, including our Wheat Board Minister Charlie Mayer in Cairns, Australia in August.

The European Community, particularly France, resisted negotiations on agricultural subsidies, but finally agreed. The negotiating mandate goes much further than many people thought possible. It includes authority to bring "all measures affecting import access and export competition under strengthened GATT rules and disciplines". It refers to "all direct and indirect subsidies and other measures affecting directly or indirectly agricultural trade, included the phased reduction of their negative affects and dealing with their causes". The reference to "phased reduction" is particularly important to Canadian farmers, who are threatened by high levels of subsidy in the U.S. and European Community.

Horticultural questions being answered just in time

By Gerald Laarhuis
With harvest near completion and most garden produce preserved, farmers and urbanites alike are starting preparations for the impending winter.

Horticulture related questions are common at this time. Transplanting and storage of bulbs and perennial ornamental plants have many people asking questions. Many are also taking one last attack on the all too common garden slugs.

Slugs overwinter under boards or debris, or in soil as clear, spherical eggs or sometimes as adults. Eggs hatch in late spring and young slugs are usually observed in mid-summer.

To control slugs dispose of all debris under which slugs can hide and lay eggs. Maintain a border of bare soil around the garden. Use traps such as boards laid on the soil or saucers of beer. Keep the garden dry and plants well spaced. Chemical controls have limited success. Apply slug baits or sprays containing metaldehyde or methiocarb around the garden.

Contrary to popular belief, liming your soil will not rid you of slugs. In order to do harm to slugs by adding lime would require several tonnes and further harm your soil. An effective barrier can be formed by sprinkling dry abrasive and slightly corrosive substances along borders and rows of plants. The soft body of a slug is sensitive to sharp sand, slaked lime and wood ashes.

Pruning — Deciduous trees are best pruned in the spring before buds open. However, trees such as birch, maple and walnut should be pruned when the leaves have reached full size to avoid heavy bleeding.

Planting and transplanting — Deciduous and evergreen trees can be planted in either spring or fall. Spring planting, which is best for bare roots, can be started when the frost is out of the ground and the soil dry enough to work. It may be continued until new foliage appears. Fall transplanting can be started in late August but should be completed at least six weeks prior to freeze up.

Care of ornamentals: Cuttings from geraniums should be taken before the first frost. To assure maximum chance of survival of roses several precautions should be taken. Do not fertilize or prune later than July and limit watering from the beginning of August. Cover rose plants to a depth of 12 inches with insulating materials. The timing of the removal of winter protection is important. Start to pull back insulating material from the roses when trees start to break buds. All pruning should be done in the spring and early summer.

Peonies are best planted in September. Plant the crowns so that buds are two inches below the surface and firm the soil around the crown. For established peonies the tops should be cut off just above the crown in September.

Nutritional snacks okay for 1980's grazing society

Snacks are an increasing important part of our diet in the '80s and especially at this time of year when kids have all of their Halloween goodies.

Food trend analysts tell us we are becoming a society of "grazers" and that the traditional three-meals-a-day eating pattern is slowly disappearing.

Snacks are fine, nutritionally speaking, as long as some thought is given to what we're eating. It may be worthwhile for parents to keep an eye on the kind of treats your child received for Halloween — in terms of nutrition and dental acceptance.

Many of the foods commonly eaten as snacks are not nutritious and can even start the process of tooth decay. For example, cakes and doughnuts are low in nutrients and high in sugar. When eaten, the sugar and the starch develop into a gooey texture. This encourages acid formation that breaks down enamel and causes tooth decay.

The amount of sugar isn't the only variable to think of. The length of time food stays in the mouth (like sticky candies) is also important. Consequently, some sugared liquid foods such as soft drinks or sweetened juices don't cause tooth decay as fast as sugared chewing gum and candies. However, from a nutrition standpoint, better food choices exist.

Milk, plain yogurt, cheese, muffins, raw fruits, vegetables, unsweetened fruit and vegetable juices and crackers are all good snacks. They provide many nutrients and contain little sugar.

Flavored yogurts.

chocolate milk, milk puddings, ice cream, raisins and granola bars are also nutritious. But, they contain more sugar so they are better eaten with meals — when you can easily brush your teeth after.

For those of you with Halloween treats, try to keep in mind what makes a good snack. Snacks are a big part of the diet. You can make them fun and good for you.

Breton recreation board

Set boundaries, then make decisions

By Kathy Neufeld

The following are the updated minutes of the regular Breton and District Regional Recreation and Parks Board held Oct. 20 at Carnwood hall.

Due to possible boundary change in our recreation area the board is concerned with such items as Willey West, Modeste Creek, funding and board membership. Ron Brown, regional recreation consultant, was at the meeting to discuss the above and the members felt the actual boundary should be set before they could take any actions.

The board has hired personnel to have the Modeste

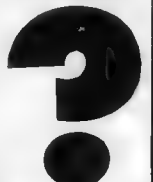

Creek picnic area (flood damaged) set up as well as having Alkali Centre rebuild the washrooms and picnic tables destroyed by the flood.

Canadian Research and Publications have been purchased by the board, village and pool society to have updated access to the latest grants available.

Cara Williams and Susan Stout are being sponsored by the board to attend the upcoming aerobics instructors seminar.

Carolyn Strand and Kathy Neufeld, also sponsored by the board, attended a fund raising workshop in Edmonton Oct. 30 and 31.

From the ground

One quick check before these guys get to the task of pouring cement for footings.

After a few years walking on rafters, a story above the ground becomes second nature, as this gentleman demonstrates in the photo above.

Once the walls are up outside, subcontractors move in to get the rest of the house ready.

This framing crew appear to be sitting around, but they're really taking accurate measurements to ensure everything is square.

The actual amount of new houses being built in Houston Valley is surprising, considering the slowdown in the oil industry. The new construction should be encouraging to workers at the new Sturdi Wood plant, however.

Hazardous Wastes Management

Special Report

This is the second of a three part series Barrhead Leader/Suan Hills Grizzly Gazette publisher Al Blackmere has written on hazardous waste management. Blackmere recently returned from a worldwide symposium on hazardous waste management in Denmark. In this series, he explains how Alberta is planning to deal with these special wastes, and compares our method with that of other developed countries.

The first part dealt with Alberta's unique method of selecting a socially acceptable site in which to locate the special wastes facility. Today, Blackmere examines the methods used by various countries in destroying special wastes, and compares the procedure Alberta is planning to use.

Different Methods Are Available To Destroy Wastes

By Al Blackmere

The products comprising special wastes are common. The need to safely dispose of these dangerous products is common. The early method of disposal was very common. Today, however, different countries have a few different views on the proper means of disposing of these special wastes.

Almost unanimously, all experts in all countries think incineration at very high temperatures is the best method of disposal of hazardous wastes. Incineration, though, means very high capital costs, and continues to be very expensive to operate.

Although there are several incineration units in the United States, including two incineration ships, many states are practicing disposing of hazardous wastes in secured landfill sites. These landfill sites are simply holes in the ground, lined with a thick (approximately 80 mil) poly vinyl chloride (plastic) liner. The toxic wastes are then dumped until the landfill site is full, then another poly liner is placed over it and the landfill site is secured.

Most European countries have gone to the incineration method. Besides being accepted as the most environmentally safe method, these smaller countries simply do not have the space available for the bulk dumping of wastes.

Denmark was the first country to institute a country wide program to deal with hazardous wastes. A special waste facility, Kommunekemi, was established in the town of Nyborg. A nation wide collection service was established to collect and transport the goods to Kommunekemi, and after treatment and incineration, a landfill site was established at Klintholm to dispose of the slag from the incinerator.

Many other European countries have adopted a similar system to that used in Denmark.

Alberta is planning a marriage of the European and North American technology. The Alberta Special Wastes Plant facility, currently being constructed 25 kilometres northeast of Swan Hills, is designed to have a high temperature incinerator operating, as well as an on-site secured landfill site for disposal of the slag byproduct from the incinerator. The landfill site is located in impermeable clay, but will also have a sealed poly liner as well. The liner, in fact, was just installed a few weeks ago. Alberta is also building a rigid roof structure over the landfill site in order to maintain dry material in the site.

Special wastes arriving at the Swan Hills site will be chemically analysed and will be treated by the method designed for that substance. All substances that can be incinerated, will go through the 1200 degree Celsius incinerator.

The gases that are created by the incinerator then pass through a series of scrubbers and filters which neutralize and filter any toxic material in them before being released into the environment via a tall stack. (Read more about stack emissions next week).

Some material that will not burn will be stabilized. Stabilization comprises solidification and/or fixation. Fixation is the process whereby chemically reactive compounds such as cement are mixed with the water and other components in sludges and other aqueous wastes to form more stable solids such as concrete which both immobilizes and, in some cases, chemically changes the waste to render it non-toxic and nonleachable.

All process waste water, treated waste water, site runoff water, and water from the truck decontamination system will be treated before being injected in a deepwell to a depth of 2045 metres (6646 feet). The deepwell will not be used for the disposal of any special or hazardous waste.

Several other countries use the deepwell injection method for waste water, but do not inject it as deep. Some American states, for instance, only deepwell the material to a depth of 800 - 900 feet.

Several delegates at the Denmark symposium commented that the Alberta method is by far the 'state of the art' system in dealing with hazardous wastes.

Next Week: Safety, collection, transportation, and what the Alberta Special Wastes Facility will mean to the average Albertan.

Now is a good time to check for electrical safety

With the winter season fast approaching — when people tend to spend more time indoors — now is a good time to check your home for electrical safety.

Electrical receptacles do deteriorate after a number of years, particularly in areas where small appliances are constantly used. A kitchen is one area of high usage for such things as electric kettles, toasters and frying pans. Bathroom receptacles also take a beating from the plugging in and unplugging of hair dryers, curling irons and electric shavers.

The most obvious thing to look for is "blade retention". If you plug in an appliance and the blades of the plug slip out of the receptacle, you know you have a problem. Even the screws that hold the electrical wires in place can deteriorate over the years.

The wise householder will call in a qualified electrician periodically to replace worn receptacles and run a maintenance check on other outlets.

Sport council

Camps offered in 10 sports this winter

Albertans 13 and over who want to upgrade their sport skills may attend camps being offered across the province in 10 sports this winter. Alberta Sport Council officials have announced.

The 12 camps, which are being offered in alpine skiing, badminton, biathlon, cross-country skiing and rifle marksmanship), cross-country skiing, luge, ski jumping, nordic combined (ski jumping and cross-country skiing), speed skating, squash, and track and field are three to six days long and cost $30 to $175. Prices generally include meals, accommodation and instruction, but there is some variation.

"In every case the camps are fun, yet demanding," said Pat Smyl, Sport Outreach Camp coordinator for the Alberta Sport Council. "They provide one of the finest opportunities for young athletes to improve their sh' is."

In addition to the six to seven hours a day of actual sport training, there are also films and speakers, Smyl said.

The camps run until April 12 and are to involve 300-500 Albertans. Anyone is eligible, but attendance is generally restricted to those with at least some prior experience in their sport.

Anyone unable to afford a camp may apply for a scholarship which covers 35 to 75 per cent of the costs of attendance.

Harvest

Solution for a decent price is not a simple one

The last two weekends I have been fortunate to be able to go out to the field and get on a tractor to bale.

With the ground so wet and the days so humid, it's really difficult to get the crop dry, but those few days on the tractor have done wonders for my tan. I really love the harvest. The smell of the field, the sun, the breeze, the feeling of accomplishment once you get the grain in the bin — of course, I don't have to keep the machinery operational.

As associate minister, it's back to the basics and being part of that partnership in agriculture which is so important when time is so critical. I was recently introduced to a farmer who claimed his wife was worth two hired men any day.

Another gratifying Wildlife Act

Draft regulations are now available for public review

A 60-day public review of the draft regulations under the new Wildlife Act has been announced by Forestry, Lands and Wildlife Minister Don Sparrow.

The Forestry and Natural Resources Caucus Committee and the Fish and Wildlife Advisory Council had a special meeting at Government House following which Jack Campbell, M.L.A. chairman of the caucus committee and Jack Shaver, chairman of the advisory council attended a news conference to release the details of the review.

The Fish and Wildlife Advisory Council, comprising 25 interest groups and two citizens-at-large, and the Forestry and Natural Resources Caucus Committee have reviewed the regulations extensively. "But the people of Alberta should be given an opportunity to review the draft wildlife regulations because of their importance and the effects they will have on everyone to day and in the future," said Sparrow.

The regulations result from the new Wildlife Act passed in Alberta in November 1984. Under the act are provisions for regula-aspect of being the associate minister of agriculture is a drive through Alberta's farmland now. Alberta is such a productive province and the crops are finally coming off; it's the people in agriculture who make that happen. The flip side of the coin is the prices. When you look at them it's not a good time to be in agriculture, either as a farmer or as the minister. The answer is a decent price for your product. You can be assured we're working on it, but in a world market situation the solution is not a simple one.

With the municipal and school board elections just completed, I would like to congratulate all candidates on letting their names stand for election. As a government representative, I have certainly come to appreciate the importance of municipal government and school boards in the effective delivery of government programs. I look forward to meeting and working with the councils and boards.

Oct. 1925 was Small Business Week. Hats off to all small businesses. The past few years have been difficult for all business. The overall economic climate of the province vitally affects small business. Investment is being encouraged in Alberta by emphasizing the long-term opportunities and advantages of the province. New investment creates demands for services and supplies. Small business is one of the main generators of jobs in this province.

The 10-year, nine per cent interest Small Business Term Assistance Program has provided loans to approximately 12,000 small businesses in the province to date. Two hundred and twelve applications were submitted from the Drayton Valley constituency. The new attitude of more conservative borrowing is apparent in that the average loan was $85,808, as opposed to the possible $150,000 maximum.

In the next two weeks the Provincial Museum of Alberta for Alberta Culture will have its caravan exhibit in communities throughout the constituency. The exhibits in the caravan present four different aspects of Alberta's heritage: One Room Schoolhouse portrays schools in Alberta before 1940; Wings of Spring is a display of Alberta's birds; Photographing Alberta is a history of photography in Alberta; and Alberta's Dinosaurs portrays a day in the life of the inhabitants of Dinosaur Park 75 million years ago.

I can be reached through my Edmonton office during the week at 422-9156 (toll toll-free through Zenith 223333). My Drayton Valley constituency office is open on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays; the number there is 542-3355. My residence number is 682-3758.

ing its meat for human consumption, has not been addressed in the new regulations. Written comments on the new discussion paper are to be sent to the above address on or before April 1.

To assist in understanding the draft wildlife regulations, a summary package has been developed. This summary and the game ranching discussion paper can be obtained at Fish and Wildlife regional and district offices.

Detailed copies of the draft wildlife regulations can also be reviewed at Fish and Wildlife regional and district offices and public libraries. Personal copies of the detailed draft wildlife regulations are available at the Lethbridge, Red Deer, Rocky Mountain House, Peace River, St. Paul, Calgary or Edmonton Fish and Wildlife offices.

Bingo cards selling quite well

Four Drayton Valley residents will share $750 in the Kinsmen newspaper blackout bingo.

Betty Rossman, Adeline Gascon, Bonnette Medved and Sherry Lew is all had confirmed bingos in the Kinsmen's first game.

The first 35 numbers in game two, being played on emerald sheets, appeared in The Western Review (page 7) last week. Additional numbers appear in the paper every week.

Kinsmen bingo coordinator Todd O'Reilly reports that cards have gone fairly well. Outlets for the bingo cards are listed in the newspaper ad.

Nothing in the Paper

"There's nothing in the paper." is a very common phrase. Perhaps it may have come to use from predehuvian days. No doubt when Noah and his sons were fitting up the ark The folks who read the weekly Squawk would sit around and bark.

And wonder why the editor devoted gobs of space To a cranky preacher-carpenter with whiskers on his face. "There's nothing in the paper," the sad subscriber groans. "Except that Mrs. Smith is visiting Miss Jones."

Or the Mayor has roofed his doghouse or cut his crop of weeds.

Or that Mr. Wade, the grocer, sells lawn and garden seed."

But when there's been an accident, a murder or a fight The reader takes an interest, you see his features light. He yells unto his neighbor who lives across the creek. "Why don't they give us news like that to read about each week!"

He does not seem to realize that when the paper lacks The headlines read and screaming, with their toll of gruesome facts,

Everything is lovely with neighbor, friends and foe. And the town is jogging onward the way it ought to go! So when you find no rank detail of some revolting rape. Just find it up and thank the Lord. "There's nothing in the paper."

New municipality

An increase in taxes or decreased services feared

The Improvement District Advisory Council is going straight to the top of its fight to maintain the ID's present boundaries.

The council agreed at its last meeting to send a letter to Municipal Affairs Minister Neil Crawford expressing their displeasure at the manner in which the plebiscite on the formation of a municipal district of Drayton Valley was conducted.

Advisory council chairman Arnold Jorgensen said Zones 4 and 5 on the eastern end of the ID were excluded from the Sept. 15 balloting, which approved a proposal to form a new rural municipality of Drayton Valley. Just under 60 per cent of the 4,500 eligible voters cast their ballots.

Councillors fear that any loss of ID territory to a new MD of Drayton Valley could lead to an increase in taxes or cutbacks in services.

Vice-chairman Bill Mahon said further attempts to get more support from West Yellowhead MLA Ian Reid have simply resulted in Reid restating his original position.

Reid, along with Whitecourt MLA Peter Trynchy said last spring that any proposals that would increase taxes in ID 14 from present levels would be unacceptable.

Despite these assurances, councillors questioned whether their concerns were in fact reaching the minister.

Although the Yellowhead School Division has gone on record as opposing any proposal that would fragment its jurisdiction, fears were expressed over whether the board of trustees fully understood the implications of any annexation of ID territory.

It was decided to include the division's position, along with that of ID industry in the advisory council's submission.

Coffee with Chris

We've had our first snowfall already. I thought it was terrific. It wasn't much and it didn't last long, but it was enough to make me feel like baking shortbread and singing Christmas carols.

Naturally, Fred thought I was bananas so I had to control myself - to just humming. I better not ask him just yet to get a tree to decorate.

As you can no doubt tell I can hardly wait until Christmas. I'm not sure why, but I feel as if it is just around the corner.

This year I promised myself I would get organized and start my Christmas shopping early. A bit here and there so that way it won't be such a devastating shock to the budget in December. No last-minute scramble for the person "who has everything", no buying presents in a rush and later discovering you've gotten three presents for Aunt Meg and none for the kids.

So, true to my promise, I made up my list and put my plan into action.

Fred is going to be amazed at how organized I am. Normally, that is not one of my stronger characteristics (non-existent is closer to the truth).

For example, two years ago I decided for my New Year's resolution I would attempt at becoming more organized in all aspects of my life. The most immediate concern was my housekeeping habits. The first time Fred opened my kitchen cupboard and didn't have to duck because of flying debris, he fainted with shock. That's when I decided too drastic of a change wasn't worth it - my resolution lasted a week.

But Christmas shopping is different. And so, with my list in hand, I began shopping. Only I went a little crazy! I mean I REALLY got into the spirit of Christmas! In one afternoon my shopping was done. So...it was a devastating shock to the budget in OCTOBER! Not exactly what I had in mind. But that just may explain why I feel as if it's Christmas already.

And if I think Fred will be amazed at my organizational capabilities with the Christmas list just wait until he sees his Chexbox bill. We are talking MAJOR amazement here.

You're right - he's going to faint.

GATT looks at subsidies

By Joe Clark, MP

We have won a round in the fight against unfair international agricultural subsidies.

For the first time in history, the question of agricultural subsidies will be a major part of multilateral trade negotiations, among 92 of the world's major trading nations. Those countries, including Canada are members of the GATT - the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which sets the rules for world trade.

This September, in Punta del Este, Uruguay, ministers from GATT countries met to bring the rules up to date. I led the Canadian delegation, and we had the honor to be the first country to speak. I told the meeting: "This conference must agree to address the real problems of agricultural trade, and to get the negotiations under way quickly...In no other sector is there such an urgent need to achieve a result."

Five days (and nights) of tough negotiations followed. A special subcommittee was established to deal exclusively ly with agriculture. It continued work which Canada had begun in May in Tokyo, when Prime Minister Mulroney made agriculture an issue at the Economic Summit. The Tokyo initiative was followed by meetings of agricultural officials in Thailand in July, and of ministers, including our Wheat Board Minister Charlie Mayer in Cairns Australia in August.

The European Community, particularly France, resisted negotiations on agricultural subsidies, but finally agreed. The negotiating mandate goes much further than many people thought possible. It includes authority to bring "all measures affecting import access and export competition under strengthened...GATT rules and disciplines". It refers to "all direct and in direct subsidies and other measures affecting directly or indirectly agricultural trade, included the phased reduction of their negative effects and dealing with their causes". The reference to "phased reduction" is particularly important to Canadian farmers, who are threatened by high levels of subsidy in the U.S. and European Community.

In Edmonton, Sept. 23, the prime minister, Don Mazankowski, Charlie Mayer and I debriefed representatives of Canadian agriculture, about the progress so far. We will involve those organizations closely in the negotiations under GATT which began before the end of October, in Geneva. In addition, we are considering other action or provide help in the short term.

But Uruguay marked a real victory - and a tough one. Ministers from 20 key countries started the final session of discussions about 7 p.m. on the Friday afternoon. We finished 12 hours later, at 1:15 a.m. the next morning. At about the same time many Canadian farmers got up to start their day. We got agreements on the most successful step so far in the fight for fair international trade in agriculture.

Safety

Chimney inspections important

Is your chimney safe? Now is the time to check it out, particularly if your heating system is oil, natural gas or propane.

Why? Because with these fuels your furnace does not stay running long enough to keep the chimney continuously hot. That's when condensation of the water in the "smoke" can occur and why you see so many chimneys with mortar and brick deteriorating, and liners crumbling. Sometimes this moisture blisters the paint on the wall covering the chimney.

Chimney deterioration can also be a result of energy conservation efforts which have tightened up many houses, reduced furnace firing rates in many cases and lowered thermostat settings.

Cold air is more dense than warm air. As air cools, it can form a column of heavy air in the chimney. When your furnace starts up, it tries to drive this air up the chimney.

Sometimes it is not successful, and the products of combustion spill back into the furnace room. Such spillage can also occur if there is a blockage in the chimney caused by rubble, a dead bird or small animal, or even a bird's nest.

If the products of combustion end up recirculating through the burner, they could become lethal. You can tell when spillage occurs from an oil furnace by smell, or from a gas furnace when there is a high degree of moisture spilling from the draft hood, or if there are signs of paint discoloration around the draft hood.

To check your chimney to make sure it is clear of obstruction, hold a mirror inside the inspection or cleanout opening at the bottom of the chimney to ensure there is daylight at the top.

A visual inspection can determine if there is loose or crumbling masonry. If you think there is a problem, call in a specialist. Your oil supplier or gas utility may be able to provide an inspection service, or suggest someone who can.

It is important that homeowners check their chimneys at regular intervals. Poorly maintained chimneys and heating systems can lead to tragic accidents.

A recent coroner's jury in Ontario reported that the deaths of six people in a fire Oct. were due to carbon monoxide poisoning and extensive burns, resulting from a faulty chimney.

Walked away

Cecile Hiltz of Tomahawk walked away from this single vehicle accident on the Tomahawk road recently. She suffered a bump on the head and scratches to her arms. The accident was handled by the County Police.

Leduc County

Annexation one of several issues in recent elections

Division 6 challenger James Coombes upset incumbent Gene Begg 219-187 to capture a Leduc County council seat, while Ed Chubocha topped the polls to win Division 4.

Chubocha accounted for 203 votes to replace retiring. Division 4 Coun. Mike Myrskog while runner-up Ron Kozial garnered 173 votes and Clarence Edstrom placed third with 123 votes.

"I feel great but there's a big job ahead; not for myself but for the people. I dedicate myself to the people as I did during the campaign. I'm happy the turnout was high and that there were such great candidates," said Chubocha.

Coombes beat Begg in Division 6, winning four of five polls. Begg won a single poll at the Warburg Legion by a 68-17 margin.

"I don't feel any different; I'm just a plain, west-end sort of guy who wants to let the east-end know we're here," said Coombes.

"I'm looking forward to another term. There are several major issues which we will have to address in the next three years," said Bittner.

Annexation is one of several issues which Bittner will face in his next term with hearings before the Local Authorities Board scheduled for early 1987.

"We will be doing what we can to present our side of the picture. People in the areas where annexation is proposed have been our ratepayers from day-one and we owe them loyalty and support," he said.

"One thing that came up during the campaign is a lack of communication and I want to address it. In the future I want to invite people to the council chambers to express their concerns and see how we operate."

The Notebook

By
Cpl. Terry Pon

This week's County Police Notebook deals with license plates. In particular, the front license plates.

There seems to be a popular misconception that the front license plate is a spare. Something that can be used as a window scraper or adorn one's garage door with.

Ever since the issuance of license plates in this province Albertans have been issued with two plates — one for the front and one for the rear. Its primary purpose is to provide identification of one particular vehicle to the many motorists that use our highways.

As a police officer, this plate information can be invaluable. As a motorist, this plate number also is important. Picture if you will a child crossing the street and is struck down by an impaired driver who leaves the scene. Your quick-thinking motorist notes the front license plate number which later is used to bring the culprit to justice.

Section 52 of the Motor Vehicle Administration Act reads as follows: "No person shall operate or park a motor vehicle or trailer on the highway unless each license plate required is attached to the vehicle in the location and in the manner prescribed by the regulations."

For a more precise definition we must then turn to Section 11(1) of the regulations under the Motor Vehicle Administration Act being Alberta regulation 22/76 which reads: "Where two license plates have been issued to a vehicle at the time of an issue of a certificate of registration, one of the license plates shall be firmly attached to the rear of the vehicle in such a position that the lower edge of the license plate is not lower than the axle."

Currently, there are only four classification of plates not issued in pairs — dealer plates, motorcycle plates, off-highway vehicle plates and trailer plates.

Failing to comply with the above requirements could net you a $20 fine under the Motor Vehicle Administration Act.

GOOD NEWS You CANADA PENSION PLAN is changing for the better As of January 1, 1987.

On January 1, 1987, your Canada Pension Plan will change. These changes put your Plan on a solid, long-term financial foundation.

It's important to know what benefits are available because your Plan provides you and/or your family with a basic level of earnings protection when you retire, become disabled, or die. You will, however, have to apply for the benefits when you believe you are eligible.

The information that follows highlights the major improvements. It's good news!

Financing a better tomorrow

New financing arrangements will make and keep your Plan more secure than ever. Right now you and your employer each contribute 1.8% of your earnings up to a maximum amount. Each year until 1991, the contribution rate will rise by 0.2% and from there until 2011 by 0.25%. If you make the maximum contribution, you will pay about $28 more in 1987.

A wider choice of retirement options

After January 1st, you can begin receiving your CPP pension as early as age 60. We could qualify even if you are not fully retired.

If you begin your pension before age 65, your benefits will be less because you will have contributed less and will get the benefits for a longer period of time.

Or, if you choose not to start your pension until after age 65, up to age 70, your monthly benefits will be greater.

Your pension would normally be payable the month after your 65th birthday. For each month between that date and when your pension begins, your benefit will be reduced by 0.5%. This adjustment will apply for as long as you receive the benefit.

I'd like to know more about my new Canada Pension Plan. Please send me the "good news" in English ☐ in French ☐ about

- ☐ Retirement Pension
- ☐ Disability Pension
- ☐ Death & Survivor Benefits
- ☐ Pension Credit Splitting
- ☐ Flexible Retirement
- ☐ Financing your CPP

Health and Welfare Canada

Santé et Bien-être social Canada

Increased disability benefits

If you qualify for disability benefits, your monthly payment will now be significantly increased. For example, the maximum disability pension in 1987 will increase from $480 to more than $655 per month.

As well, anyone entering or returning to the work force will have disability coverage after contributing to it for the last 5 years in most circumstances.

Survivor benefits continue on remarriage

If you receive survivor benefits, they will continue as well if you remarry. If you remarried and have your survivor benefit discontinued, you can have your benefit reinstated.

Splitting pension credits

If your marriage ends in divorce, each spouse will be entitled to one half the "pension credit" you earned together. After January 1, 1987, the credits can also be divided if your marriage or common-law relationship ends in separation.

Sharing your pension

When you and your spouse receive your CPP retirement pensions, the benefits you've both earned during your life together can be shared if either of you wishes this request.

Additional benefits for dependent children

In the past, dependent children were limited to one flat rate benefit, even if both parents had paid into the Plan and died or became disabled.

Should the same happen now, your children would be entitled to double benefits.

Improved "Combined" benefits

If you are entitled to a combination of survivor and disability benefits, the maximum monthly amount you could receive will now be greater.

As for combined survivor and retirement benefits, these will now be more generously awarded to those who qualify.

Building on a solid foundation

Being financially prepared for the future is a responsibility we all share. Your new Canada Pension Plan now gives you a stronger foundation. It's a sound base, and it's up to you to build on this foundation.

It's never too soon, or too late, to begin building for your future. We hope you'll start today.

You may need further information to better understand these changes. For booklets about your Canada Pension Plan, call the toll-free number below or fill out the coupon and mail it to:

Kineties

Babysitters graduate

Having trouble finding a reliable, knowledgeable babysitter worthy of your children?

We'll look no farther than the local Kineties Club.

Thanks to them, Drayton Valley now has another 23 qualified babysitters. The 23 children graduated from the local club's six-week training program Oct. 22.

During the six weeks, the children learned what to do in the case of fire, injury, illness, temper tantrums, child care and general babysitting information.

The students were tested at the end of the program and had to obtain a 70 per cent correct average to pass.

A list of the graduates is unavailable because of club rules, but more information is available from Judy Siegers, 542-3518.

Going, going, but not gone. Not yet.

Catch them while you can.

Canada Savings Bonds are only here for a short time, so you'll have to hurry to buy them. Don't delay or they'll be gone.

Once again, a good rate of return.

The 1986/87 Canada Savings Bonds earn 7 1/4% interest the first year, and a guaranteed minimum rate of 5 1/4% for the next 6 years to maturity.

Rates on current bonds.

The 7 1/4% rate will also apply for the coming year to the last three series of Canada Savings Bonds: S38 (issued in 1983), S39 (1984) and S40 (1985).

Outstanding Series 35 (1980) and Series 36 (1981) will earn their guaranteed minimum of 10 1/4%, while Series 37 (1982) will earn its guaranteed minimum of 8 1/4%.

$75,000 purchase limit.

You can buy up to $75,000 of the new series, or more if you want to re-invest your maturing bonds.

Re-invest those maturing bonds right now.

Series 32 (issued in 1977) and Series 34 (1979)

maturing November 1, 1986, and will not earn any further interest after that date.

If you hold either of these two maturing series, you can re-invest the full face value in the new series in addition to the $75,000 purchase limit.

Always secure.

Canada Savings Bonds are guaranteed by the Government of Canada.

Cashable at any time.

You're free to cash in your bonds at any time at full face value - with no interest penalty after January 31, 1987.

So convenient to buy.

Canada Savings Bonds can be bought where you bank or invest. You may also purchase them at work through the convenient Payroll Savings Plan.

Time is running out, so buy today.

To make sure you don't miss out on this year's Canada Savings Bonds, buy them right away. Friday, November 7, 1986 is the last day the bonds may be bought without paying accrued interest.

Installation services held for new ministers

By Bernice Johnson
388-3983

The superintendent of the Covenant Churches of Canada, Rev. Gerald Stenberg of Prince Albert, Sask., was on hand to perform the installation service of the new ministers, Don and Georgia Harrison Oct. 19.

Brenda Hoffin, Barb Beller and Marj Jacques sang special songs at the service, followed by a pot-luck supper. It was nice to see Ester Stenberg, accompanied by her husband, again.

Calvin Jankin did an excellent job of guessing the weight of the big pumpkin at the Lucky Dollar store recently. He was only 75 grams, or 2.5 ounces from the actual weight of 6,850 grams.

The Alder Flats Alley Cats were defeated 4-3 at Warburg Oct. 20 in an exhibition match. They were three players short and had to borrow them from Warburg.

The Alley Cats are in need of a referee for their home games and tournaments. For anyone 16 years of age or older who would be interested in this paid position, there will be an official referee clinic in Drayton Valley Nov. 15 and 16. A Level II certificate, which is required to ref the games, will be issued to those who successfully complete the course. For more information please contact Linda at 388-2400.

Alder Flats News

Lars and Doris Larson have returned from a nine day holiday to Vancouver, where they visited two of his nieces, Debbie and Bob Amundson in Prince George and Linda and Bill House at Chilawack. They travelled through the Fraser Valley and Hells Gate, enjoyed the Pacific Ocean and Stanley Park. They returned via the United States border, Banff and Calgary.

Scotty and Nellie Hare attended a dual birthday party in Red Deer Oct. 19 for their granddaughters, Ashley floretta and Charlie Gillingham who was one-year old and Rebecca (Brian and Donnal), who is three.

All the Hare family, spouses and family were home for Thanksgiving.

Joe and Lil Zingle have returned from a trip to Kelowna where they visited his mother and sister. They travelled through the Frank Slide and Crescent.

Grant and Linda Wilke of Edmonton, Don and Paula Maciborsky of Drayton Valley, and Dennis, Lois and family enjoyed Thanksgiving at their parents' home, Pete and Gladys Maciborsky. Hag and Agnes Schaurte have taken up residence in Leduc where they are both employed. The George Hensch family have moved into their home in Alder Flats. Vic and Sharon Oliver and son have moved into the former Vic Forchuk residence west of Alder Flats.

Cards of Thanks

MANY THANKS
 I wish to thank everyone who helped to make my surprise birthday party a real one for me. The delicious buffet, music, video taping & flowers added to the friendly atmosphere where so many friends gathered to congratulate me. This is the many cards made my birthday a happy occasion to treasure in memory. 2.44

Sincerely, Euse Maphone
WE WOULD LIKE to express our sincere thanks to all our friends, neighbors & relatives for their acts of kindness & sympathy at the loss of our husband, Bob & grandfather. We are very grateful for all floral tributes, sympathy cards, phone calls, visits, "condole" cards, food and donations to the ALS Society. A very special thank you to Pastor Smith, callowers, Dick & Mary, Church of God ladies who served the lunch, Dr. Smith, Bartha, Elizabeth, Wendy, Irene & Mary from the Homecare.
 The Wadell Family

In Memoriam

PRETZER, Edward
 Sept. 14, 1904 - Nov. 4, 1984
 In loving memory of Edward Pretzer
 God save you getting tired,
 When a cure was not to be,
 He put me alone to suffer,
 And whispered "Come to Me,"
 You didn't deserve to wonder,
 So He took you over to rest,
 God's garden must be beautiful.
 He only takes the best. 2.44

Our love forever,
 Wife Fay & Family

CARNEGIE, Phyllis
 A year has passed and we know we had him.
 But not to see your face or hear your voice places address in our hearts.
 We know that you have gone to a better place than here,
 But for you there will always be a prayer and a tear.
 Sadly missed by your Family 2.44
